Don't Let a Poor Witness Derail Your Investigation: Difficult Witnesses and How to Interview Them

As an investigator, you must determine how to best address witnesses with different types of personalities in order to effectually complete your investigation.

Our highly experienced workplace investigators will share their tried-and-true methods to successfully interview different types of witnesses that may be encountered during investigations, including:

- The witness who can't remember;
- The evasive witness;
- The argumentative witness;
- The "deer in the headlights" witness;
- The overly emotional witness;
- The dishonest witness; and
- The rambling and oversharing witness.

The session will also cover how to handle witnesses who are represented by "active" counsel. This briefing will provide practical tips to ensure that difficult witnesses do not derail your workplace investigation.

Join us for this complimentary informative session.
