CONSTRUCTION CLAIMS & LITIGATION

The firm excels in the area of handling and resolving all aspects of construction disputes including claims, stop notice and mechanics lien actions, and surety bond claims. Our attorneys are experts in both public works and private construction disputes representing owners, public entities, general contractors, subcontractors, and material suppliers in claims concerning entitlement to compensation for extra work, design changes, coordination issues, construction defects, design and engineering errors, disruption and loss of productivity claims, delay and acceleration claims, and liquidated damage analysis and assessment. When needed, AALRR can help minimize potential delays and loss of capital by providing advice and counsel during the project to avoid litigation. However, when litigation is required, AALRR has experienced trial attorneys who have litigated matters from the claims process through trial and appeal, if necessary. Our attorneys have extensive experience in virtually every type of construction project, including state and federal public works projects, commercial and residential construction, industrial plants, infrastructure projects, and hospitals and medical centers.
