TRIALS

In our experience, the value of a case is directly related to the lawyer’s ability and willingness to go to trial—and when it comes to trial litigation, AALRR has only an “A” team. While we pursue legal solutions that, wherever possible, will avoid the distraction and expense of drawn-out litigation and trial, we also recognize that sometimes, trial is inevitable—and our considerable experience means that our clients will not be forced to accept an unreasonable settlement on the courthouse steps or switch trial counsel to perform “battlefield triage” at the eleventh hour.

Alerts & Articles

Retirees Denied CalSTRS Administrative Appeal Rights May Proceed Directly to Court 07.26.2019

California Supreme Court Allows Proposition 218 Challenge Without The Challenger Attending The Local Agency’s Rate Increase Hearing
06.11.2019

Supreme Court Limits Availability of Class Arbitration
04.29.2019

Case Law Begins to Define Peace Officer CPRA Requests
02.19.2019

Blog Posts

California Courts Issue Twin Decisions Enforcing Arbitration Agreements
Labor & Employment Law Blog, 04.26.2019

Supreme Court Rules a Copyright Must Be Registered By the Copyright Office Before a Copyright Owner Can Sue For Infringement
Trials

Business Law Journal, 03.26.2019

Ethan G. Solove
Susan M. Steward
Barbara S. Van Ligten
Brian M. Wheeler
Kimberley A. Worley

RELATED AREAS
Administrative Hearings & Arbitrations
Alternative Dispute Resolution
Bidding Disputes & Contract Litigation
Business & Commercial Litigation
Class Action Defense
Construction Claims & Litigation
Data Security & Privacy
Education Litigation
IP Litigation
Labor & Employment Litigation
Litigation
Real Estate Litigation
Tax Controversy & Litigation
Wage & Hour