LIFE SCIENCES & HEALTH CARE

We are in a unique era in the United States, and in California, when it comes to life sciences and health care. Rules and regulations surrounding this crucial corner of American life are evolving at a rapid pace, and it can be difficult to keep up. AALRR has a team of attorneys who dedicate their practices to doing just that—staying abreast of the most minute changes in the law and communicating the latest updates to our clients, so they can maximize their impact while minimizing their risk.

Over the last few decades, we have successfully served numerous clients in the life sciences and health care sphere, from biotech companies, to medical device companies to emergency services, to healthcare providers themselves. Working closely with those we serve, we’ve dealt with fraud and abuse cases, FDCA compliance, goods and services contracts, and data privacy. We have a rich understanding of both federal and state policies related to this field, from Medicaid and Medicare programs to HIPAA and HITECH classifications and more.

Our multifaceted team of attorneys specialize in legal areas from serving as counsel, helping you prevent problems before they arise, to serving as litigators, ready to bring your case to court if needed. We serve healthcare providers; medical device companies; biotech companies; emergency, ambulance, and support services; and many others in a wide range of areas, from regulatory due diligence and licensure advice to mergers and acquisitions and investigations—and everything in between. At AALRR, we are prepared to guide you through this quickly evolving field.
